Christmas – Pagan or Christian?

Christmas today is quite rightly a time of love – giving, caring and receiving – a time to be enjoyed spent with our family, friends and loved ones. However, there is no mention anywhere in the bible that Jesus was born on the 25th December – the nearest scholars can guess is that Jesus was born in the autumn.

Families, however, come together at Christmas and this is important even though Christmas has tended to become more commercial than Christian in recent years.

It is important to remember that Christians celebrate the birth of Jesus above commercialism and, that on one special day, they celebrate the birth of their saviour. So why not on 25th December?

Most Christmas customs are based on Pagan Festivals, the Roman Saturnalia and the Scandinavian Teutonic Yule. Christians adopted these during the early years of Church history.

- Christmas is a PAGAN not Christian festival.
- The 25th December was celebrated in ancient days as the birthday of the SUN god centuries before Jesus Christ was born.
- Nowhere in the Bible are the believers in the God of Abraham, Issac and Jacob required to celebrate Christmas.
- In order to win the Gentiles to Christianity, the Roman Church adopted this ancient winter festival of the SUN god and renamed it Christmas, mistakenly thinking it would honour the Son of God.

It is apparent that Christmas is a combination of many Pagan practices, but today many do not know it's history.

In the Old Testament: Jeremiah 10. 2-4.

“This is what the Lord says: Do not learn the ways of the nations or be terrified by signs in the sky, though the nations are terrified by them. For the customs of these people are worthless; they cut a tree out of the forest and a craftsman shapes it with a chisel. They adorn it with gold and silver and hammer with nails so it will not totter.”

A Pagan practice condemned?

A clear reference that Christmas trees and astrology are considered Pagan in the Bible. (Yet in the Bible, three Kings followed a ‘star!’)

Whatever your beliefs, whatever religion you follow, we trust that you will enjoy the SPIRIT of Christmas regardless of it's origins.

Love one another.

Love is the greatest gift of all.

Auras

Auras are kaleidoscopes of wonderful colour that surrounds each and every one of us for our whole lives. Some of us we may see Auras more readily than others, yet most of us can often see or perceive the aura with just a little practice.

To bring an aura into focus, gaze beyond your subject, so if the person is standing 3 feet in front of a wall look through the person and focus on the wall as though daydreaming, so that you are aware of the person/subject in a corner of your vision, yet not focusing clearly on him/her. What is important is that you hold that gaze as long as you can without blinking, and slowly the aura will begin to glow around the head and shoulders, and usually all of the person upon whom you are focused.

Often, on early attempts, the Etheric will show itself, as a thin white glow just beyond the substance or body, if you can see that, you can see the aura, which appears just beyond the Etheric. Auras are energy. pure energy; your own personal energy field. It's an energy that is linked into our chakras and into your soul, and is often thought of as being like an electro magnetic field. The Aura always reflects how we are, where we are at and our current mood.

The understandings and applications of colour are open to individual interpretation, but the following is something of a guide:

- RED Positivity, Red is a very psychical energy.
- ORANGE Positivity, optimism, strength. Can also indicate that the person has teaching qualities.
- YELLOW Purpose in life, protection. Can also indicate an increased level of mental usage such as an individual that has been reading a lot!
- GREEN Learning, acquiring and imparting. May show emotional balance.
- BLUE Healing and communication.
- PINK/LILAC Unconditional love, gentleness, caring, compassion.
- PURPLE Nobility of soul. Spirituality.
- WHITE Above and around the top of the head will show connection to universal source and spiritual development.

Each colour has its own vibration, and colours in our aura are constantly changing! Auras can be photographed, either by using specially developed aura cameras or by Kirlian photography, which has now been around for some time. Remember animals, fish, plants all have auras. In fact all living things on our planet have an aura.
